Dr. Warren Libman acquired his DDS dental degree at McGill University in 1986, graduating at the top of his class and receiving "Top Honors in the Clinical Disciplines". He also received the Alpha Omega Award as the highest ranking student at the University and several other honors. He then furthered his education with a one-year residency at the Jewish General Hospital in Montreal, then spent three years in the world renown prosthodontics specialty program at the University of Washington, earning his certificate and Master's Degree in 1990.

Dr. Libman serves as an Affiliate Professor in the Restorative Department of the University of Washington Dental School, where he teaches graduate-level prosthodontic students. He has published numerous articles in professional journals, and has lectured extensively at meetings across the U.S. and Canada. Dr. Libman was named "Top Prosthodontist" by his professional peers in Seattle Magazine - - in both "Top Dentist" issues - - and was also voted by his peers as one of "The Best Dentists in America" in a publication of leading dentists.

Dr. Libman is also Past-President of The Washington State Society of Prosthodontists, and is a member of numerous other professional organizations, including:

- The American Academy of Fixed Prosthodontics
- Western Prosthodontic Seminars
- The Consortium for Dental Excellence
- Seattle/ King County Dental Society
- Washington State Dental Association
- The American Dental Association
- Alpha Omega Dental Fraternity

From www.libmandds.com:

Dr. Libman's #1 goal is to provide the highest quality dental care available. He does not run a "high production" practice. He devotes more than the usual amount of time to each patient and procedure; preferring to control the process rather than delegate it to others. Dr. Libman's patients experience a personal approach specially tailored to their situation and needs.

Because of his artistic inclination, Dr. Libman did his own technical work for several years, which allowed him to master his skills as dental artist. His involvement with the University and with study clubs and professional meetings keeps him current on the latest science and technology. Which means his patients can be confident they'll receive the latest in proven treatment standards, plus the highest quality results. One more reason that respected Northwest Dentists refer their patients to Dr. Libman.
